Informational Interviewing / Career Research

Informational interviewing is just what it sounds like. It is a great way to explore and research a chosen career path. It is the process of spending time with one of your network contacts in a highly focused conversation that provides you with key information you can use to decide which career path is right for you. Research shows that the best way to predict if you will be happy in a future occupation is to talk to someone currently working in that field and ask them if they are happy with the work and why they are happy.¹

BENEFITS OF INFORMATIONAL INTERVIEWS

Informational Interviews can help you:

✓ Explore careers and clarify your career goals
✓ Gain a better understanding of an occupation or industry
✓ Learn from people who work directly in your area of interest
✓ Better understand a work environment
✓ Learn how to break into a field and find out if you have what it takes to succeed
✓ Discover employment opportunities that are not advertised
✓ Broaden your network of contacts for future reference
✓ Build confidence for your job interviews
✓ Access the most up-to-date career information

INFORMATIONAL INTERVIEWING IS…….

○ A proactive process initiated by you. You set the tone of the conversation with a prepared list of questions.

○ Not a plea for work or a job. People will be happy to talk to you about their experience and career path. Be clear that you are just asking for information and would like a few minutes of their time.

○ Not a job interview. You are merely gathering information for career exploration.

GET STARTED – STEPS TO CONDUCTING AN INFORMATIONAL INTERVIEW

1 Identify the Occupation or Industry you want to Learn About

○ Think about what career fields interest you: Identify your interests, abilities, values, and skills, and evaluate labor conditions and trends to identify the best fields to research.

2 Prepare for the Interview

○ Career Field: Read all you can about the field prior to the interview to gain a basic understanding.

○ Decide: What information you would like to obtain about the occupation/industry. Prepare a list of questions that you would like to have answered. See page 4 for sample questions and page 5 for a preparation worksheet.

○ Dress professionally: Think of the impression you want to make.

3 Identify your Connections & Connect!

After you have decided which occupation or industry you want to explore it is time to start making connections! Identify people to Interview. Most people enjoy talking about their work. You can learn a lot just by having a casual conversation with almost anyone. Here are some suggestions of where you can start:

- Connect with people you know! Friends, relatives, fellow students, present or former co-workers, neighbors etc.
- You can also connect with people using:
  - Professional organizations
  - A Google Search or Reference USA
  - Organizational directories
  - LinkedIn
  - You may also call a company and ask for the name of a person by job title

- Arrange the Interview: Contact the person by telephone; or by an email followed by a telephone call.
  - Contact the individual and ask for 30 minutes of their time
  - Make it clear you are not seeking employment; just advice
  - Be certain to identify a date, time and location for the interview and a phone number you can use later to confirm the meeting (approximately one day in advance). Remember to be flexible in your scheduling as the interviewees are voluntarily spending their time with you.

- Tips on Making the Call:
  - Introduce yourself
  - State who referred you (If you have a direct connection always state their name)
  - State the purpose of your call

  “Hi, my name is ______. I am a student at The University of the Incarnate Word. I am researching potential career choices and am interested in learning more about ______. Carlie Cardinal said you’d be a great person to speak with about this career because of your experience and knowledge. I would like to speak with you more to learn about your career. Would it be possible to schedule an appointment to meet with you for about 20-30 minutes? I am generally free on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and will be flexible to arrange a time at your convenience.”

4 Conduct the Interview and Follow Up

Consider conducting several interviews! Do at least three in each career area that interests you. This will enable you to hear a wide range of experiences and viewpoints. The information you gather is valuable and can help you decide your career direction.

- Conduct the Interview:
  - Show up 5-10 minutes early. Do not be late!
  - Dress appropriately, arrive on time, and be polite and professional.
  - Give them a firm handshake and make eye contact.
  - Restate your purpose and why you are interested in talking with this person.
  - Refer to your list of prepared questions. Take notes and be prepared to initiate conversation since you are the interviewer. Stay on track, but allow for spontaneous discussion. Adhere to the original time request.
  - Let the individual you are interviewing bring up the subject of job vacancies. Do not put them on the spot!
  - Before leaving, ask your contact to suggest names of others who might be helpful to you and ask permission to use your contact’s name when contacting these new contacts.

- Follow Up: Immediately following the interview, record the information gathered.

- Be sure to send a thank-you note (preferably hand-written) to your contact within one week of the interview. Keep in touch with them and let them know how helpful it was.

Sample Thank You Note:

Dear Carlie,

I appreciate the time you took to talk with me today about ________. Your views and advice on the field have been very helpful to me in deciding a career direction. If there is anything I can do for you, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Best Wishes,

5. Put the Information to Use!

Take action and decide your career path. If you would like to process the information you gained further, make an appointment with a Career Advisor in the Career Services Office by calling 210.829.3931.

- Put the Information to Use! Review your notes and evaluate what you learned. Analyze the information you gathered. What kinds of adjustments do you need to make to your classes, internship plan, career goals, job search and/or resume? Use the worksheet on page 6 to process your informational interview.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS TO ASK

Choose several questions that are based on what you would like to learn. Most of these are open-ended questions that do not require a yes or no answer so that you can engage in conversation and learn more. Keep your conversation friendly, upbeat, brief and focused on the purpose of the meeting.

- How do you get into this line of work or career field? Can you describe your career path?
- What are your roles and responsibilities within the organization?
- What do you like best about your job? What do you like least about your job?
- What education/training or degree do you need to be prepared for your job?
- What courses should a person take?
- What are some common problems you face, and how do you handle them?
- What trends or issues do you see shaping the direction of this field?
- What does it take to become successful in this field?
- What is the entry level salary range for this occupation? Fringe benefits? Personal benefits?
- What are some of the entry-level positions in this industry?
- How difficult will it be to get a job in this field after graduation from college?
- What is a typical day like for you?
- Where do you see your career advancing from your current position?
- What do you do to avoid burn out?
- How flexible can you be in this field? Do you work varied hours?
- What are some typical mistakes or errors which prevent a person from advancing in this field?
- How would you advise someone to start building a career in your field today? Where would they start? What steps would they take and experiences should they acquire? In what companies, departments, and positions?
- If you were hiring someone for this position, what kind of person would you look for? What qualifications would that person need? Which skills and personal qualities would you consider most important?
