

CULTURAL STUDIES

Bachelor of Arts

College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences

Program Overview

Cultural Studies is an innovative, interdisciplinary field that investigates how cultures make meaning. It examines how systems of representation such as language, the media, and the arts construct and influence social values, identities, and institutions. Cultural Studies uses the subject matter, methods, and theories of traditional disciplines such as Literary Studies, Communications, Art, and Anthropology and addresses issues and ideas central to the growing fields of Women's Studies, Ethnic Studies, Post-Colonial Studies and popular culture. In Cultural Studies courses, students learn to interrogate how values and worldviews are formed by culture.

Career Opportunities

The critical thinking, writing, and interpersonal skills developed in the Cultural Studies program prepare students for a competitive and highly diverse marketplace. Students will be prepared to use their skills in applied settings such as museums, community arts programs, publishing, advertising, teaching and service agencies. Recent graduates are working in higher education administration, nonprofit service organizations, radio and music, and international business. Cultural Studies majors will also be prepared to continue their academic study in traditional disciplines such as English, History, Anthropology, or American Studies as well as in interdisciplinary fields such as Women's Studies, Film and Media Studies, and Post-Colonial Studies.

Faculty

Since Cultural Studies is an interdisciplinary program, faculty from a variety of fields contribute to the curriculum. They include:

- Dr. Emily Clark, Professor and Chair, English (Ph.D., University of North Carolina)
- Dr. Paul Lewis, Associate Professor and Chair, Philosophy (Ph.D., University of Kentucky)
- Dr. Julie Miller, Professor and Chair, Cultural Studies and Religious Studies (Th.D., Harvard University)
- Dr. Tanja Stampfl, Associate Professor of English (Ph.D., Louisiana State University)
