

Bachelor of Fine Arts in Photography

College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in Photography at the College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences at the University of the Incarnate Word focuses on coursework that will the skills necessary for a successful commercial career in portrait photography, product photography, fashion photography, newspaper/magazine photography and other photographic fields.

The program balances studies in the liberal arts and sciences with studio art and art history. Focal areas include a B.A. in Studio Art, a B.F.A. in Studio Art with a concentration, a B.F.A. in Photography, a minor in Art, a minor in Art History, a minor in Art Therapy and a minor in Photography. Courses in art history, design, drawing, painting, photography, printmaking, sculpture and ceramics are designed to develop personal awareness and individual self-expression. The goal of the program is to impart an informed understanding of art through creative work and discerning observation, as well as prepare the student for entry into an M.F.A., program and/or for participation in the professional art world.

QUICK FACTS

- As part of their degree program, students will take a number of professional courses such as BLAW: Business Law and ARTS 4325: Advanced Photographic Lighting, as well as a number of internship opportunities, which prepare the students for the world of professional photography.
- The Kelso Art Center offers students updated technologies and resources including a computer lab for digital photography; two darkroom labs for photo classes; and a designated lighting studio for photography students as well as an exposure unit for photographic screen-printing processes.
- Students learn and work with internationally renowned faculty, who have had work exhibited in spaces all over the world and with papers held by the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.
