

Roger C. Barnes, Ph.D.

Dr. Roger C. Barnes is a professor of sociology at the University of the Incarnate Word in San Antonio, Texas. He chairs the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice and teaches criminology, collective behavior and social movements, sociological theory, the sociology of the death penalty, and social stratification, among other courses.

He has specialized as both a scholar and social activist on the death penalty. His writings on the death penalty and crime and justice issues have appeared in the National Social Science Journal, the Journal of Interdisciplinary Education, the Journal of South Texas Studies, the Criminal Justice Journal, Police Studies, Verbum Incarnatum, in edited books, and in newspapers.

Dr. Barnes taught for three years at the United States Penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kansas. He was also present (as a college student in 1970) visiting prisoners on Arkansas' death row when the Arkansas governor announced that he had commuted all fifteen death sentences.

Dr. Barnes was the first recipient of the university's Presidential Teaching Award in 2005. He served as the university's Moody Professor in 1996-1997 and received the CCVI Spirit Award for 1999-2000.

He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Kansas, where he also received his doctoral degree. He is married to Dr. Karin Barnes, who chairs the Department of Occupational Therapy at the UT Health Science Center at San Antonio. Their daughter, Ingrid Barnes, is a graduate of Tulane University and the University of Texas School of Law and practices law in Dallas.